
CONTROL STATEMENTS →

Programs are executed sequentially in the order which they appear. Some time we need to execute a small part of the program and may be we need to execute it again and again until a particular condition is not reached.

Control Statements specify the order of program to be executed. They define how the control is transferred to other parts of the program.

Various Classification of Control Statements

Subscribe to our
YouTube Channel

